

We know how dogs have fun Original SF dog fun center since 02 All day playgroups, dog cams www.FogCityDogs.com
San Francisco Coupons 1 ridiculously huge coupon a day. It's like doing The Bay at 90% off! www.Groupon.com/San-F
Cat Breed Profiles A to Z Photos, articles & info on all cats Behavior, nutrition & latest news www.CatChannel.com

March 3, 2010

How to Keep Your Pet Healthy

Filed under: Cat Health, Dog Health — shae @ 8:57 am

When it comes to keeping your pet healthy there are many things to take into consideration such as making your home pet-proof. As we all know, our animals can and will find something to get into when you aren't around. So first and most important, anything that can physically harm them needs to be put away far out of their reach. Things that are harmful to our pets are the same for children like certain foods, prescriptions/medicines and electrical cords that they could possibly chew right through.

Dogs and cats just like humans need to get regular check-ups. It's important to ask your veterinarian questions while you are there to make sure you aren't missing anything. Even if you have pets that are strictly indoor doesn't mean they can't get fleas. This is something you can prevent by giving them the necessary dosage of

S e a r c h :

Search

C a t e g o r

- Cats
 - Cat Activities
 - Cat Books
 - Cat Breeders
 - Cat Breeds
 - Cat Forums
 - Cat Grooming
 - Cat Health
 - Cat Nutrition
 - Cat Obesity
 - Cat Vet Finder
 - Fleas & Ticks
 - Living with Cats
 - Senior Cats
- Dogs
 - Dog Activities
 - Dog Books
 - Dog Breeders
 - Dog Breeds
 - Dog Forums
 - Dog Grooming
 - Dog Health
 - Dog Nutrition
 - Dog Obesity
 - Fleas & Ticks
 - Living with Dogs
 - Senior dogs
- kittens

P a g e s

- 3 Dogs and 2 Cats
- Dog Breeds
- Lucy
- Marley
- Mea
- Pet Websites
- Walking Your Dog

B l o g r o l

Frontline Plus. This can prevent your dog or cat from getting heart worm which can be deadly.

What you feed your animals makes a huge impact on their health so do your research or consult with your vet to make sure they are getting a balanced nutritional diet. There are a few human foods they absolutely must stay clear of such as: grapes, chocolate, onion, garlic and whatever is in your garbage.

Make sure your pets have a steady exercise routine to keep them active and healthy. Take your dog on daily walks and you can play with your cat around the house with toys. This will keep them happy and in good shape.

Spaying or neutering your pet can keep them more healthy and prolong their life too. The easiest way to take care of getting your pet fixed is to go to your regular vet or contact an animal shelter as many of them have programs that perform a spay or neuter for a low cost.

Comments Off

February 4, 2010

Dog Care

Filed under: Dogs — shae @ 2:57 pm

Keep in mind that owning a dog is a big responsibility but it's all worth it. It's important to choose the right veterinarian for your dog care. Regular check-ups and a good exercise routine is key to raising a happy healthy dog.

Boxer Dog Blog
Cat Breeders
Cavalier King Charles
Spaniel
Daschunds on YouTube
Doberman Pinscher
Dogs
German Shepard
Italian Mastiff
Italian Mastiff Videos
Persian Cats Blog
Pit Bull Breeders
Poodle Puppies
Rottweilers

A d m i n :

Register
Log in

A r c h i v e

March 2010
February 2010
January 2009
November 2008
October 2008
September 2008
August 2008
July 2008
June 2008
May 2008
April 2008
March 2008
February 2008
January 2008
December 2007
November 2007
October 2007
September 2007
August 2007
July 2007
June 2007
April 2007
March 2007
February 2007
January 2007
December 2006
November 2006
October 2006
September 2006
August 2006
July 2006
February 2006
January 2006

They always need fresh water and a nutritious dog formula. You can learn how to read the labels and find out what to look for and what to stay away from. Your Vet will also have good advice on what kind of food is right for your little friend.

Your dog should wear a ID tag at all times just incase they slip away from you. I have found dogs in the past and luckily they were wearing a tag and I was able to return them to their owner within minutes.

Comments Off

January 16, 2009

Long Haired Cats

Filed under: Cat Breeds, Cat Grooming, Cats — shae @ 1:37 pm

Long Haired cats are known for their beauty and long silky coats. They are more high maintenance then a short hair cat but it's all worth it. The Angora was the first long haired cat breed discovered. They originated in Europe in the 16th Century. The Angora was named after a Turkish city called Angora.

Many long haired cats are known for their sweet dispositions. They tend to be very passive so they do best as indoor cats and that protects them from any predators on the outside.

Grooming your long haired cat can be somewhat of a labor intensive experience. As you know, most cats don't like to be messed with especially when it comes to getting wet. It's good to know that long haired cats don't shed anymore than short haired cats. The long haired cat breeds have such a long coat which makes it almost impossible to properly clean themselves, that's where you come in. They need to be brushed almost every day or they may end up with matted fur and that's no fun for either one of you, trust me.

The Long Hair cat breed exists in a wide variety of shapes, colors, sizes and breeds. Here are a few long haired cat breeds:

- Norwegian Forest Cat
- Turkish Van
- Persian
- Javanese
- Birman
- Ragdoll
- Cymric
- Somali
- Turkish Angora
- Maine Coon

All of these long haired cats have different characteristics and origins. They all have something unique about them and are friendly and social breeds. One of the characteristics they do have in common is that they all have a beautiful long coat.

Comments Off

Next Page »

All for the love of animals 3 Dogs & 2 Cats - 3 dogs and 2 cats with no more on the way!

Dog & Puppy information from the editors of DOG FANCY magazine

Click here!